

A line drawing of a single-story house. The house has a gabled roof with a small pediment over the central door. The walls are covered in horizontal siding. There is a central door with a small stoop and a door handle. To the left of the door is a window with a grid pattern and shutters. To the right of the door is a larger window with a grid pattern and shutters. A small square vent is located above the door. The roof is covered in a brick-like pattern.
